PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Research Associate   Mannheim, Germany
University of Mannheim   Aug 2020 - present

   My research activity focuses on analyzing and mitigating algorithmic bias in news recommendation, on developing novel personalized neural models for multilingual and few-shot recommendation, on constructing resources for improving cross-lingual transfer in content-based recommendation, and on designing new benchmarks and methods for retrieval-augmented generation for tasks such as questions answering.

Visiting Researcher   Würzburg, Germany
University of Würzburg   Dec 2023 - Feb 2024

   Host: Prof. Goran Glavaš

   My project aimed at developing a multilingual, multi-parallel dataset covering diverse languages for evaluating and developing multilingual and cross-lingual news recommender systems.

Student Research Assistant   Mannheim, Germany
University of Mannheim   Nov 2018 - Apr 2020

   Working on investigating the impact of A-box materialization on RDF2vec knowledge graph embeddings, and improving entity matching in knowledge graphs.

PROJECTS

SpatialBenchRAG   University of Mannheim, Germany
Principal Investigator   Nov 2025 - Apr 2026

- The Open Science project is funded by the Open Science Office.
- The goal is to develop a multimodal, multilingual benchmark for evaluating retrieval-augmented generation systems grounded in spatial knowledge graphs across tasks such as spatial and visual question answering or multi-hop reasoning.

ReNewRS: Responsible News Recommender Systems   University of Mannheim, Germany
Researcher   Aug 2020 - Nov 2022

- ReNewRS is funded by the German Baden-Württemberg Stiftung (BW-Stiftung).
- The project aimed at investigating the influence of algorithmic news selection on shaping public opinion. Primarily, I have played a pivotal role in developing domain-specific datasets for examining the occurrence of algorithmic biases in news recommenders, in empirically quantifying such biases, and in designing novel models for mitigating their effects.
